

Proclamation

Bob Buckhorn, Mayor

WHEREAS, the Holocaust resulted in the deliberate murder of millions of people prior to and during World War II including one third of the Jewish people, along with countless members of other minorities such as Roma and Sinti citizens, ethnic Poles, people with disabilities, homosexuals, and political and religious opponents; and

WHEREAS, reaffirming the United Nation's Universal Declaration of Human Rights, which proclaims that everyone is entitled to all the rights and freedoms set forth therein, without distinction of any kind, such as race, religion or other status, the United Nations General Assembly designated January 27th as an annual International Holocaust Remembrance Day in memory of the victims of the Holocaust, and it is a day of global observance. The significance of the date commemorates the liberation of Auschwitz-Birkenau, the largest Nazi death camp where more than one million people died by Soviet troops more than seventy years ago on January 27, 1945; and

WHEREAS, the United Nations Outreach Program, along with the history of the Holocaust, seeks to remind the world of the lessons to be learned in order to help prevent future acts of genocide and offers an opportunity to reflect on the moral responsibilities of individuals, societies and governments, and it has partnered with the United States Holocaust Memorial Museum to make a film resource and educational package available to educators around the world in all United Nations official languages; and

WHEREAS, in memory of the victims of the Holocaust, the 2017 theme for International Holocaust Remembrance Day is How Can Life Go On, a reminder for us all to think about what happens after genocide and what our own responsibilities should be in the wake of such crime. As spoken by Elie Wiesel, awarded the Nobel Peace Prize in 1986, We must take sides. Neutrality helps the oppressor, never the victim. Silence encourages the tormentor, never the torment; and

WHEREAS, in observance of International Holocaust Remembrance Day, the Consular Corps of Tampa Bay, in cooperation with the United Nations Association of Tampa, Florida Holocaust Museum, Tampa Bay Holocaust Scholarship Foundation, and Tampa Sister Cities International, will host a public program at the Italian Club of Tampa in Historic Ybor City, Florida on Sunday, January 22, 2017, and the event will include a candle-lighting ceremony, and reflections and presentations by guest speakers.

NOW, THEREFORE, I, Bob Buckhorn, by virtue of the authority vested in me as Mayor of the city of Tampa, Florida, do hereby proclaim January 27, 2017 as in the city of Tampa, Florida in memory of the victims of the Holocaust, and in honor of the survivors, as well as the rescuers and liberators, and further proclaim that we, as citizens of the city of Tampa should strive to overcome intolerance and indifference through learning and remembrance.

"INTERNATIONAL HOLOCAUST REMEMBRANCE DAY"

Dated in Tampa, Florida, this 3rd day of January, 2017.

Bob Buckhorn
